Sahara Special by Esme Raji Codell | LibraryThing

Sahara Special is an insightful, funny and moving tale about a troubled, but talented young girl. Codell has an incredible ear for kids' voices that makes her first person narrator feel like a best friend. I recommend this book to kids dealing with divorce, life changes, and of course, the desire to write!

Sahara Special book by Esmé Raji Codell

Sahara Special, her new novel for young readers and her first foray into fiction, is both an engaging story and a hymn to change, written by a woman who knows a thing or two about reinventing herself. Codell has been a librarian, a bookseller, a mother and a read-aloud advocate a subject she explores in How to Get Your Child to Love Reading, which will be published next month by Algonquin Books.

Book Review - Sahara Special by Esmé Raji Codell | BookPage

As Codell noted, Sahara Special "is a book about a person who has something unique to give to the world, but needs to believe that people like her before she really has the heart to give it." The idea for Codell's Sing a Song of Tuna Fish: Hard-to-Swallow Stories from Fifth Grade stemmed from a visit to her former school. When the students in a fifth-grade classroom asked Codell to tell them a story, she tried—unsuccessfully—to recall an incident from her childhood.
